Confirm Your ICC Membership Information to Vote at Code Hearings, ABM. The Code Council's Annual Conference and Group B Final Action Hearings (Administrative, IECC, IPMC, IRC – Energy, and IZC) are scheduled to begin Oct. 25 in Charlotte, N.C. In accordance with Council Policy 28, new and updated membership information must be received no less than 10 days prior to the first day of the meeting in order for members to exercise their voting privileges, both for the Annual Business Meeting and the Final Action Hearings. The membership deadline for this meeting is close of business on October 15, 2010. Governmental Member voting designation form attached.

When Can Governmental Member Voting Representatives Accept Financial Assistance to Attend Code Hearings?

The objective of this email is to help you understand when Governmental Member Voting Representatives (GMR's) can accept financial assistance to attend code hearings based on Council Policy 36. Financial assistance from trade associations or other groups is permitted as long as it is explicitly authorized by the "elected governing body or chief administrative authority" of the GMR's unit of government. The rationale for this approach is that it is neither practical nor appropriate for ICC to police a local government's compliance with its ethics or other rules regarding that jurisdiction's acceptance of financial assistance from outside entities (including entities who may be subject to the jurisdiction's regulatory authority). IGCC Update – The International Code Council IGCC Public Hearing Committee took action on more than 1,500 comments and nearly 120 hours of testimony on Public Version 1.0 of the International Green Construction Code (IGCC) during eight days of public hearings in Chicago. The outcome of the hearings will result in Public Version 2.0 of the International Green Construction Code, scheduled for release in November.

Free Digital Copies of the 2009 International Energy Conservation Code®!

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) has provided funding to furnish free digital copies of the 2009 International Energy Conservation Code® (2009 IECC). This free download is meant to support the building energy efficiency goals of DOE's Building Technologies Program, as well as those found within the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. DOE assists states and stakeholders with adoption- and compliance-related activities associated with the 2009 IECC. By making the code more readily available to all involved, DOE is confident that this collaboration with the International Code Council (ICC), the publisher of the IECC, will lead to greater energy efficiency in buildings.

The Blueprint to 2015. The ICC Strategic Plan, known as the "Blueprint for the Future," is being updated after five years. This next five-year plan will provide a framework for the business decisions and mission-relevance of the activities of the Code Council through 2015. In the coming weeks, you will be asked to provide feedback as the new Blueprint begins to take shape. A special page on our website is already dedicated to this project, and can be accessed at:

Code Development Review Ad Hoc Committee (CDRAC). The Code Council Board of Directors has appointed a special committee to review our code development process on an ongoing basis, ranging from the schedule to issues addressing procedures and participation.

The CDRAC is Chaired by Board member Cindy Davis, and composed of seven code official board members and six industry members, the CDRAC is charged with addressing critical issues impacting the code development process. The committee recently wrapped up its August meeting. Voter eligibility, vote ratification, remote voting, increased participation and a host of related, complex issue were on the agenda. The Committee agreed there is a clear message from ICC members and there is room for improvements. A complete meeting report will be posted on the committee's web page soon.

Your ongoing feedback is very much appreciated as the CDRAC continues its work. To review a summary of the CDRAC meetings, visit the website at:

ICC Needs You – Please renew your membership - We need your continued support this year to build on our accomplishments and to maintain the strength we've worked so hard to achieve. ICC is dedicated to ensuring building and fire safety while delivering top notch education and professional development. It might be helpful to point out some of the latest developments at ICC that affect our membership:

- ✓ In late 2009, ICC launched a new and improved website that is complete with interactive features, enhanced navigation, members-only resources and an updated design.
- ✓ In parallel with the new site, we launched the Communities of Interest portal. ICC's communities are free, interest based and interactive areas on the site dedicated to your area of focus.
- ✓ Members can now create and maintain a member profile including personal and professional data, areas of interest and other important information. Member profiles, which are available 24 hours a day and seven days a week, allow members to customize their online experience.
- ✓ Building Safety Journal has been redesigned in an innovative new format – without the limits of a printed publication. Building Safety Journal Online is delivered to your inbox with improved presentation, interactive content and in-depth coverage of critical issues.
